

Humor 10-2025

Carpenters from California, Missouri and New York showed up at the White House for a tour.

The chief guard welcomed them with special enthusiasm because the front gates were in need of repair.

He asked each person to come up with a bid.

The California carpenter measured and figured and finally said, "Well, $400 for material, $400 for my crew and $100 profit for me; $900 total."

The guard nodded and turned to the carpenter from Missouri.

That man took out his tape measure and a pencil and, after some calculating, said, "It'll cost $700-$300 each for material and my crew and $100 profit for me."

The guard thanked the man and turned to the carpenter from New York.

Without hesitation, the New Yorker said, "This job will run $2,700."

The guard gasped.

"You didn't even measure or do any calculating, he replied.

"How do you figure it'll be so expensive?"

"Simple," said the New York carpenter.

"$1,000 for me, $1,000 for you, and we hire the guy from Missouri.

A man was interviewing a young woman who had applied for a job in a gift shop.

It turned out that her favorite sport was soccer, and she was bending his ear about her accomplishments in the neighborhood league.

Trying to steer the interview back to her job qualifications, the man said, "Tell me about your long-range goals."

After thinking a minute, she replied, "Once I kicked the ball in from midfield."

A man's affluent neighbor was startled when her 14-year-old son announced that he wanted to become a garbage collector.

"I'll never get used to that boy," she moaned.

When the man asked her why the boy should want to be a garbage collector, she sighed and said, "He thinks they only work on Tuesdays."

Q: Why did the monster go inside the bar?

A: For the boos.

Q: What do you call an annoying pumpkin who does stupid stuff?

A: A jack-ass-o-lantern.

Q: What health insurance do Halloween creatures use?

A: Medi-scare.

Q: What's a skeleton's favorite board game?

A: Tibial Pursuit.

Tundra by Chad Carpenter

A Man asked his brother-in-law, the father of four boys, "If you had it to do all over again, would you still have kids?"

"Yes," he said.

"Just not these four."

A man's sister explained to the man's nephew how his voice would eventually change as he grew up.

Tyler was exuberant at the prospect.

"Cool!" he said.

"I hope I get a German accent."

On his 18th birthday, a man's son announced that he was no longer obligated to observe the curfew they'd imposed on him.

"I'm 18," he announced.

"And you can't stop me from leaving the house if and when I want to."

"You're right," the man said.

"I can't stop you from leaving.

But I can stop you from coming back."

Her class assignment was to interview an "old person" about his life, so a man's niece asked him, "What was the biggest historical event that happened during your childhood?"

The man replied, "I'd have to say the moonwalk."

She looked disappointed.

"That dance was so important to you?"

Q: What happened to the cannibal who showed up late to Halloween dinner?

A: They gave him the cold shoulder.

Q: What is the witch's favorite crime show?

A: America's Most Haunted.

Q: What do you call it when a vampire has a serious problem in his home?

A: It's a Grave problem.

Q: Why do skeletons make good comedians?

A: They are two humerus.

A teenager took her new boyfriend home to meet her parents. They were appalled by his haircut, his tattoos and his piercings. Later, the girl's mom said, "Dear, he doesn't seem to be a nice boy." "Oh, please, Mom!" said the daughter. "If he wasn't nice, would he be doing 500 hours of community service?"

A person's teenage niece, Elizabeth, was nervous as she took the wheel for her first driving lesson.

As she was pulling out of the parking lot, the instructor said, "Turn left here.

And don't forget to let the people behind you know what you're doing." Elizabeth turned to the students sitting in the back seat and announced, "I'm going left."

A boy's oldest sister had made a salad for dinner and served it on everyone's plate before they sat down.

Going to the table, their Dad caught the boy's four-year-old sister, Amy, poking his salad and told her to stop.

Amy was very quiet all through the dinner.

Finally, when the meal was over, their Dad asked her, "Amy, why were you playing with my food?"

"I was trying to get the moth out," she replied.

An elderly gentleman with a hearing problem goes to an audiologist, who fits him with hearing aids.

A month later, the man returns to the doctor for a checkup.

"Your hearing is almost perfect," the doctor remarks.

"Your family must be pleased that you can hear again."

"Oh, I haven't told them yet," the gentleman replies, "I just sit around and listen to their conversations.

I've changed my will three times so far!"

Q: What's the Cause of Death when the gigantic prize winning pumpkin crushed a man to death?

A: He was gourd to death.

Q: What happens if you combine a vampire and a snowman?

A: You get frostbite.

Q: Do zombies eat popcorn with their fingers?

A: No, they like to eat the fingers separately.

Q: Do you know what killed the man who had a two ton pumpkin fall on him?

A: He was squashed.

Tundra by Chad Carpenter